Food for Thought: Is there more we can do to reach out to community members facing the aftermath of suicide? Any more we can do to assist in prevention.

We discussed the resources that are made available after a student's suicide through the District. Mike Johnson explained the process that he is involved with as a counselor. Immediate screening and watching is done to refer those that might need additional professional help. Counselor's hands are tied a little with what personal and family information they can ask a student w/ out parent consent.
